THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION

- 25X1 1. The Chinese Communist Northeast Bureau, to increase the efficiency of its financial organization, worked out a plan which called for the transfer of a large part of its staff to small investigation units attached to local offices.¹ Early in 1952 the Bureau detailed 426 staff members, 375 clerical and 51 of higher rank, to work with various provincial and municipal government offices.
2. To counteract the United Nations embargo against Communist China, the Chinese Communist Northeast Government asked the people in industry, commerce and agriculture to implement the following program:
- a. Encourage workers to carry out a contest for the quantity and quality of goods produced.
 - b. Request farmers to organize mutual assistance units.
 - c. Establish material exchange stations in centrally located cities for the exchange of materials between cities and villages.

- 25X1 1. Comment. Presumably the majority of these were tax offices.
